GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She Made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to bring back color, gloss, thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully darkened and lustrous, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Adv.

THE MILK SITUATION, HOW A PROGRESSIVE DAIRYMAN SHOULD VIEW IT

"When I started to sell whole milk I received a premium for the milk over the price for butterfat in cream. Hogs were low in price, and we all agreed they were onerous critters, anyway. Separating was a task we all wanted to dodge, and the prospects of receiving a premium for the milk, we decided to feed the calves whole milk and follow the 'line of least resistance' by selling our whole milk at the ranch."

"But when I understand hogs are worth 16 cents—surely this throws a different light on things. This certainly is one high-priced product we can market from our ranch. Heard a man say he had a yearling hog that was worth as much as some of my milk cows! We've just figured out that it's been costing us about $5 per month per head, to feed our calves whole milk. That certainly does not pay."

"I can now get from 6 to 8 cents per pound more for my butterfat, in sweet cream, delivered once daily to the Maricopa Creamery company, at either Mesa, Phoenix or Glendale, than I can get for whole milk picked up at my ranch. Shall I discontinue raising calves? (I certainly cannot feed them whole milk without losing money.)"

"Shall I continue to give my skim milk away, when the United States department of agriculture says it's worth at least 80 cents per hundred pounds, if fed straight to hogs? What is far more alarming, shall I be compelled to pay some one from 6 to 8 cents per pound of butterfat for the privilege of donating them my skim milk? And then have no voice in whether or not my milk is 'faulty'? Am I going to say, 'Come to my ranch and get my milk, and I'll make it all right for you'—outright present of the skim milk. I'll go you one better, I'll pay you from 6 to 8 cents per pound of butterfat on all the butterfat I produce, in addition to making you a present of the skim milk, if you'll come and get my product."

"No! There is a profitable solution offered me by an independent creamery, one which is opposed to monopolies and believes in a live-and-let-live policy."

"If I thought I could produce a good quality of cream, and keep it sweet, I'd patronize the Maricopa Creamery. I understand they are at your service, on a limited quantity of cream on the sweet cream basis, and that I had better see them quickly if I want to avail myself of their offer to pay not less than 15c per pound for the butterfat in cream delivered, between now and October 1, 1918."

Let us instruct you on the care and production of sweet cream. Put your separator problems up to us, if you are not already equipped to separate in an efficient way. We are at your service. MARICOPA CREAMERY COMPANY, United States Food Administration License No. G-29120.—Adv. br

GOOD SAMARITAN IS POORLY REQUESTED

Being approached on the street by a stranger who solicited a meal from him by stating that he was out of work and hungry prompted a prominent business man of this city to take the unfortunate young man to a near-by restaurant for his meal. The man, who was hungry, was a young man who had been out of work for some time. The business man, who was a Samaritan, was poorly requested.

When the youth appeared before Judge Thomas in the police court yesterday afternoon he denied the charge of the officer and replied to the court on being questioned that he had been in Phoenix for the past two weeks having come here from New York. He was asked by Judge Thomas if he was 19 years old. He replied 19 years old. After a rigorous reprimand for his bad faith the court admonished the youth to seek some useful employment after he was released from jail and committed him to serve 10 days.

The Misses Honaker of Phoenix are nicely located at 156 Hart avenue, Ocean Park, California (one block from ocean), and are prepared to furnish room and board at reasonable rates.—Adv.

SQUAW SCORNS IDEA SHE FEARED SPOUSE

"Did your husband ever threaten you?"

"No; he's afraid of me," answered the Apache Indian on the witness stand in the divorce court yesterday when she testified that the man she married in 1906 failed to support her.

Susie Kadavalla, Joki, told the story of how a lazy husband not only forced his wife to support herself and children but to provide for him as well. Frequently she said, she was obliged to beg from members of the tribe.

Judge Lyman granted her the decree.

DEFENSE COUNCIL MEASURE PASSED BY LEGISLATURE

tacked Thomas K. Marshall of Tucson, president of the Arizona Temperance federation, and a defense of him was offered by Mr. Wilkinson.

Only Two Against Concurrence

When the bill was sent back to the senate the question of concurring in the amendments was submitted. Several of the members passed on the roll call, among them Mrs. March, the author. She explained that her hesitation had resulted from an uncertainty whether a joker had not been inserted in the bill during its stay in the senate. Later she voted aye. Only two votes were given against concurrence.

Senate Bill No. 1 for the extension of the franchise to citizens who are absent from the state in the military or naval service, the legislation for which the special session was chiefly called and but for the need of which it would not have been called, was passed by the senate and sent to the house where a similar measure is pending.

Dairying Bill Passed
The senate also passed the dairy inspection bill, one of the measures specifically mentioned in the call. A similar bill in the house was under consideration when an adjournment was taken for the day.

A companion piece to this, the bill to regulate the manufacture and sale of by-products of grain, alfalfa and cottonseed, converted into livestock food occupied the house for the greater part of the day and having been comprehensively amended, was ordered to the enrolling and engrossing committee. Back of this bill was dissatisfaction with the prevailing quality of cotton seed oil cake. The bill requires that all persons and concerns engaged in the manufacture of such livestock foods from by-products or from the blendings of grains should be required to file with the board of supervisors of the county where such business is carried on, a statement of the business and formula of the foods. An inspector shall be appointed at a salary of not more than $1,000 a year and a secretary at the same salary. If an inspection of the food shows it to be at variance with the formula, the business may be at once suspended.

Counties Bear Expenses
Mr. Green was the chief sponsor of the bill. All the expense of its operation would be borne in the counties where this business is conducted. It is interesting to note that the bill was introduced in the senate, and not in the house, as it came from those counties which would not only have no part of the expense to bear, but which would enjoy the protection of the measure.

Formal action on many measures, generally adverse, to get them out of the way, was taken by the senate. But there was one measure, a joint memorial directed to the national food administrator, introduced by President Chandler late in the afternoon, that went through under a suspension of the rules. It prays for the establishment of wheat terminals in this state. It recites that such an arrangement would be of inestimable benefit to the wheat growers and would in no way be a burden on consumers.

It is now generally believed that the final adjournment will not take place until tomorrow. Possibly it will not within the power of the legislature to working under the highest pressure to finish the business before that time. But a member of the house who has kept his eye on the appropriation for the expenses of the legislature has figured out to a nicety that there will be just enough of the appropriation to carry the session over to Wednesday.
